

The barbed wire circle entightens

Severity and integration: these are the two keywords reaffirmed by Minniti, the Italian Minister of Interior, about the immigration subject. Severity against the economic migrants, who wouldn't have the title to remain in Italy; integration for the ones escaping from conflicts.

By reaffirming these two principles, also the PD's (Partito Democratico - Democratic Party) mayor of Modena agreed with the new managing program of migration control. A program set with a decree, planning that the old lagers - the CIE (Sites for Identification and Expulsion) - conversion in CPR (Sites for Permanence and Repatriation). These new facilities are characterized for being spread out on all national territory, containing a total amount of 1600 persons, and smaller, to be better supervised and managed, also far from city center, and far away from the gazes of the calm and subdued citizens. Actually, there is nothing new comparing with the old CIEs, except for the name.

According to what has been learned, with the reopening of the CIE in July, the PD's city council of Modena pointed again to the need of a model of immigration policy reception to make effective the repatriation measures, and the intention to make this effective with the detention in the new sites with the guarantee of expulsion, but without moving energy and staff members from the law enforcement, employed in the daily oppression inner the national borders.

This model rationalizes the oppression forces that are fielded. And above all, it assure profit affairs to those cooperatives and institutions which organize these structures and procedures, like Poste Italiane, with its company Mistral Air, manages the forced repatriation of irregular migrants.

In Modena some cooperatives had already obtained a contract for the management of the structures for the asylum-seekers: in pole position there is 'Consorzio Cooperative Sociali - Caleidos' - which manages the buiding for migrants in via delle Costellazioni (Costellazioni road). In evaluation phase for a new assignment by the Prefecture there are the 'Leone Rosso' cooperative and the 'Associazione Centro Sociale Giovanni XXII' association (this last one is Catholic).

Cooperatives like these are in business also hiring some migrants in 'voluntarily jobs' (not payed) as the last one called: 'gli occhi della Municipale' ('the eyes of the Local Police'), and it consists in complementing the Local Police to control and report illegal cases... (for example other people without the 'right permissions' to stay in Italy, would be enclosed and repatriated).

With continuous operations like these, it's not difficult to figure out the results: patrolled streets in every corner by human and electronic eyes, the neighbourhood control ready to inform police about every single paranoia, mute, lower head people devoted to feed rulers wallets, marginalization and imprisonment for who puts another way of living in practice.

To whom don't want to play the game of masters and their slavers, or the game of fascist and police that would like to see exploited people separated and one against the other.

To whom don't believe in opening new lagers or implementing militarization or in enclosing in national borders, and whom believe that making this means attacking the freedom of everyone; to whom know that the matter isn't obtaining 'more human' prisons or 'more open' frontiers or 'more dignified' job, but the probelm is in every one of these inner workings.

To whom clearly knows who are the guilty ones for the present misery, and to whom don't want to sit and watch all this.

To solidarize and organize between unwanted ones is possible; to strike is necessary
